New Peiping Truce Bid Is Labeled As Trick

U.S. Aides Angered By UN Action

48-Hour Delay Voted On Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 23—The United States pressed today for an early vote on condemning Communist China as an aggressor and attacked the new Peiping limited truce bid as a trick to negotiate "at the point of a gun."

The Chinese statement that a cease fire in Korea could be arranged as a first step in a seven-power conference on Asiatic problems left the United States and the Arab-Asian bloc deeply split.

The bloc, seemingly supported by Britain and other commonwealth nations including Canada, worked energetically for a new peace move toward Peiping head of consideration of the American resolve.

India, leader of the Arab-Asian bloc, won a 48-hour adjournment in the UN Political Committee last night with its announcement that the Indian ambassador in Peiping had been assured by the Communist regime that the Korean war could be settled by a seven-power conference acting on the following order:

NEGOTIATE A cease-fire in Korea; arrange the withdrawal of all foreign troops; help settle Korea's internal affairs by the Korean people; arrange definite stages for the U. S. withdrawal of protection from the Chinese Nationalist stronghold of Formosa; affirm Communist China's right to sit in the UN.

The Chinese Communists advocated that the nations taking part include the U. S., Britain, France, Russia, Communist China, India and Egypt.

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate, assailed the Chinese move as "a transparent effort to divide the free world and delay the exercise of the UN's Pacific functions—it is meant to postpone, delay and procrastinate," Austin added.

"Insofar as one can understand the Peiping communication, it is not even new. It is not a proposition. It is not addressed to UN. It isn't much more than a postal card would be."

Late last night the State Department also denounced the Communist move. State Department spokesman Michael J. McDermott said:

"If the communique pressed by Indian Delegate Sir Benegal Rau can be presumed to be addressed to the UN, we do not consider that it constitutes an acceptance of the UN cease-fire proposal."

Congressional reaction in Washington to the Communist move could be summed up in these words: "How stupid do they think we are?"

THE BRITISH PRESS showed concern today over what it interpreted as a division in Anglo-American relations. The London News Chronicle carried a banner headline on its Lake Success (Continued on Page Two)

Another Cold Blast Heads Into State

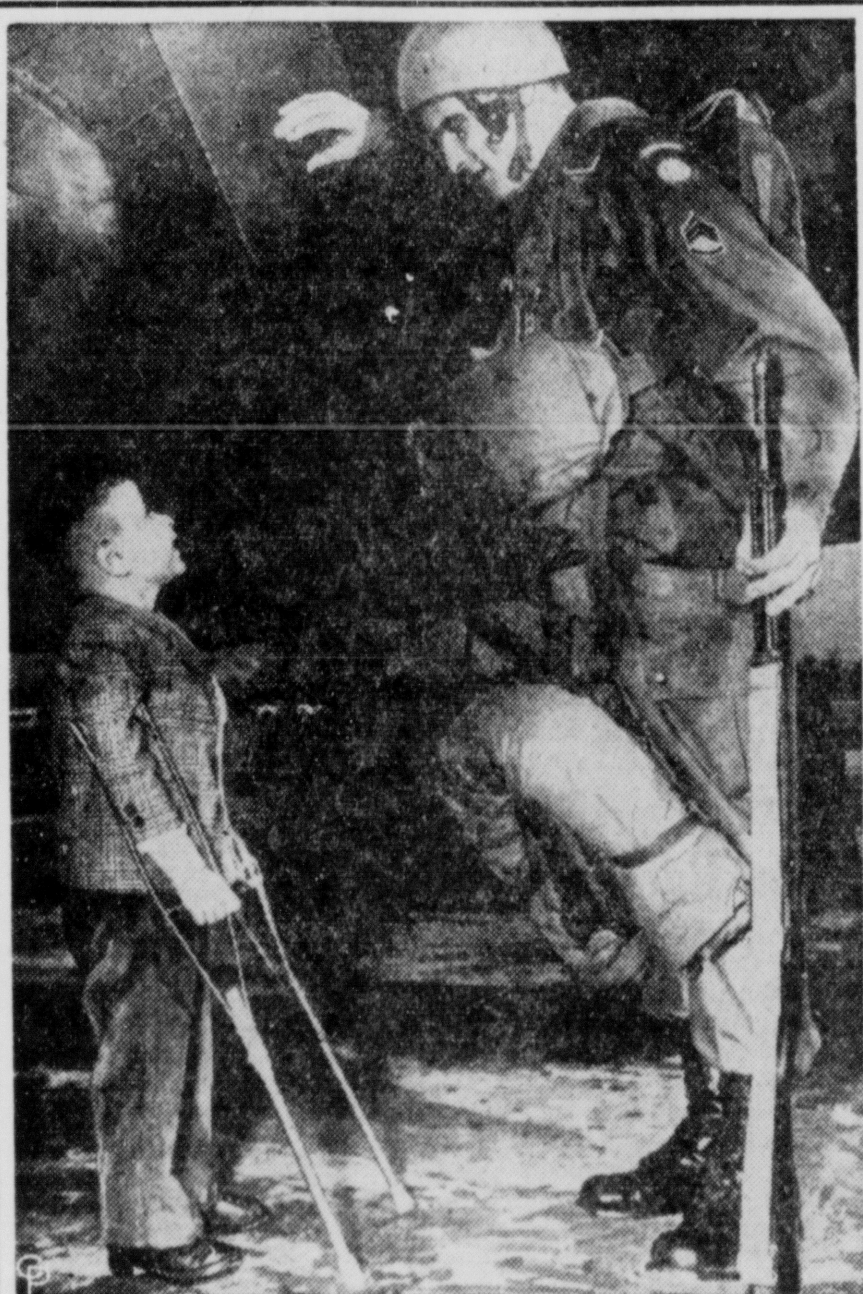

Another cold blast from the northwest headed toward Ohio Tuesday as light rains and scattered snow flurries threaten to top off a day of milder temperatures and cloudy skies.

A warm windflow from the south dominated the Ohio weather picture, giving the mercury a chance to climb into the forties.

"But cold air from Canada will move in late tonight or early tomorrow," the forecaster said Tuesday. "Lows tonight will range from 30 to 35 in the northwest and 34 to 38 in the east and south."

Wednesday will be colder, with showers changing to snow flurries, he added.

The weather bureau's five-day forecast follows:
"Milder Friday. Colder at end of week. Temperatures near normal for period. Precipitation generally light and mostly around Wednesday and again Friday night or Saturday. Total amount about one-quarter of an inch."

LEFKO PLAN GAINS FAVOR

Gross Sales Tax Balloon Punctured By State Aide

Circleville's week-long debate on a proposed gross sales tax Tuesday pointed up two old adages:

1. A mole hill was made into a mountain.
2. The mountain labored and gave forth a mouse.

The gross sales tax issue, born of about ten minutes casual discussion at last week's city council meeting, was built up into near earth-shaking proportions as pro and con elements chose sides, and charges and counter-charges flew.

When it reached its peak, the whole thing collapsed, punctured like a dime store balloon.

The puncturing was done by a

Quick Curbs Are Demanded; Johnston Hit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The chairman of congressional watchdogs over the anti-inflation program called today for immediate price-wage controls and sharply criticized appointment of Eric Johnston as economic stabilizer.

Sen. Maybank, (D) S. C., said that he was "disappointed" by the President's selection of Johnston, former U. S. Chamber of Commerce president and now head of the Motion Picture Association, to handle the top-level mobilization job.

He said he disliked the appointment because he felt Johnston is "a man who doesn't know first-hand the problems of such large segments of the American economy as agriculture, small business and labor," and added bitterly:

"I do trust he will forget the Chamber of Commerce and remember the American people. He is not a man practiced in public life. He would be a good fellow to roll prices back on movies."

Johnston's appointment, approved by the Senate Banking Committee Monday, is expected to come up for Senate confirmation late today. After the Senate acts, the President is expected to issue an order giving the new economic stabilizer sweeping powers over the anti-inflation program.

At the same time, Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle, who will work under Johnston, is putting the finishing touches on a price-wage freeze to be issued later this week.

DECLINING TO be identified, he glanced at the proposed gross sales tax idea and declared:

"There is no doubt whatsoever but what such a tax would be unconstitutional because the state sales tax preempts the field."

Meanwhile, cause of the whole debate—a request for pay increases by city employees—remains an unsolved problem. But the doctor in the case, although he did not know where the medicine might be found, was ready to write the prescription.

A special called meeting of city council's finance committee reportedly is scheduled for Tuesday evening. Members of the committee are George Crites, Ray Cook and Ray Anderson.

All indications point to a committee report recommending pay increases for city policemen and firemen. Where the necessary funds might come from was a moot question.

One committee member said that since there seemed to be no visible source of the added necessary income, council would have no alternative but to order that

Army Says Man Too Small To Avenge Brother

CINCINNATI, Jan. 23—Roy Shadrick planned to return home from Cincinnati today where the Army refused him after he sought to enlist to avenge his brother's death.

The Army said yesterday 26-year-old Roy, who came recently from Skin Fork, W. Va., "to sign up," wouldn't get the chance to avenge the death of Pvt. Kenneth Shadrick, the first American killed in Korea. Roy's 101 pounds just weren't enough, the Army said.

"I've grown up with a pistol, rifle and shotgun," Roy bemoaned, "and I think I could handle myself well in the rugged terrain of Korea if only the Army would take me."

When told of his rejection, Roy mused:

"Even if I am thousands of miles from the fighting, maybe I can help avenge Ken's death by turning out weapons for other Americans to use against the Reds."

WILLINGNESS TO FIGHT STRESSED

Ike Said Ready To Report Europe Defense Too Slow

PARIS, Jan. 23—Belief that the European Allies generally are failing to implement their defense programs fast enough will be reported to President Truman by General Dwight D. Eisenhower on his return from Europe this week, an International News Service reporter said here today.

At the same time, the supreme commander of the North Atlantic treaty forces will state that he was "cheered" by the over-all impression he had of the professed willingness of most of the European allies to make greater efforts in the common defense plan, the reporter declared.

He will report, however, that it will take more time than he had on his first hurried trip to nine European countries to make a final assessment of Europe's willingness to make the necessary sacrifices to defend itself.

He will express his readiness to return to Europe next month to establish headquarters in France and to continue to "needle" the European allies into matching proportionately the sacrifices which the United States is being called upon to make to safeguard the Western World.

ON THE BASIS of information gathered while accompanying General Eisenhower during the course of his European tour, Kingsbury Smith, International News Service correspondent, said he is able to reveal that "Ike" will report to President Truman that nearly all the European allied governments told him their ability to develop effective defense forces depends upon accelerated deliveries of American military equipment. There is reason to believe that Eisenhower will recommend to the President that the United States should speed up such deliveries as quickly as it can, with due regard, of course, for American commitments in Korea, Indo-China and elsewhere.

Eisenhower is understood to feel that the United States should continue to show the European allies that Uncle Sam is willing to help them if they will help themselves.

He will report that he was particularly impressed by the spirit which he found in such nations as Denmark, where both the government and people seemed determined to stand up and defend themselves regardless of the small size and exposed position of their country.

Eisenhower said at the conclusion of his visit to Copenhagen that the spirit he found there "lifted up my heart."

On the other hand, he will inform President Truman that he "just could not understand" the attitude of some of the European allied governments, such as the Dutch, who seemed more inclined to stress the economic and psychological difficulties they face than the efforts they were prepared to make to defend themselves.

THE SUPREME commander was so disheartened by his talks with the Dutch leaders that, after his departure from the Hague, he sent a letter to American Ambassador Selden Chapin expressing disappointment with Holland's defense plans and especially the government's reluctance to increase the conscription period beyond one year.

"Ike" will tell the President, Smith reports, that he pointed out to the European allied leaders that American boys are being called upon to serve 27 months in Uncle Sam's armed forces.

He emphasized to some of them that when an American boy from Minnesota, for example, was asked to serve that much time to help defend Western Europe, he would want to know what European youths were doing to defend their own countries.

Eisenhower also is likely to report disappointment with the attitude he found in Portugal, where the government, instead of strengthening its force, is reportedly planning to decrease them by about 20 percent for economic reasons.

Eisenhower will inform the President that he "needed" the European allied government heads on the necessity of matching proportionately the sacrifices which the United States is being called upon to make in the common defense effort, and especially on the importance of increasing their armament production.

When some of the European politicians pleaded that their countries were not as big nor as rich as America, "Ike" retorted that the "basic, most important element of all" was "spirit," and that any country, regardless of its size or richness, could take the lead in displaying that element.

He will tell the President that he hammered home to the European political leaders that if they and their people have "the heart" to do the job, Western Europe can be defended.

Atom Scientist Very Pessimistic On Peace Chance

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—A noted atomic scientist said today the chances of avoiding an atomic war with Soviet Russia are steadily fading.

Dr. Eugene Rabinowitch, editor of the Bulletin of The Atomic Scientists, wrote that many believed war inevitable when the magazine was launched five years ago.

The chances of avoiding an atomic war with the Soviet Union, said Rabinowitch, were thought by some to be as low as five percent. He added:

"Doctors would not give up a patient as long as they could reasonably assume that he had a five percent chance of survival."

But, Rabinowitch added, "the patient is steadily getting worse."

The University of Illinois scientist surveyed the efforts of scientists to prevent an atomic conflict and heal the breach between East and West and concluded that good will had failed and the "break between the two camps appears all but complete."

The scientist predicted that the United States would not be able to take up the fight for effective control of atomic weapons again until the Atlantic coalition is strong enough to stop a possible Soviet invasion.

Odds against "scaring men into rationality," noted Rabinowitch, "have been growing higher and higher."

18-Year-Old Vote Urged

Bill Is Entered In Legislature

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—The Republican house leadership promised full consideration today to a proposed constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age in Ohio to 18 years.

Majority Leader William Saxbe (R-Champaign), speaking for himself and Speaker Gordon Renner (R-Hamilton), pledged that the proposal would not be bottled up in the reference committee when it goes to that group for referral today.

The joint resolution, which needs a three-fifths vote of both houses to present the question to Ohio voters in the coming November election, was introduced by Rep. Homer Abele (R-Vinton).

A few other of the 31 new house and dozen new senate bills introduced were worthy of attention, but generally it was a "cats and dogs" night as the legislature began its fourth week.

Milk Going Up Another Cent

Mrs. Circleville Housewife will have to readjust her budget for milk beginning with Wednesday morning's delivery.

Retail milk prices will be increased by one cent beginning Wednesday, the second one-cent raise in price here within the last 60 days.

The increase will mean a cost of 20 cents per quart of regular milk and 21 cents per quart of homogenized milk.

Other dairy products will be increased in price in proportion to the new milk increase.

Powerful Backing Given 18-Year Draft By Solon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The administration's request to draft 18-year-old youths gained the powerful support today of Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee.

Vinson's endorsement came as the committee opened hearings today on the manpower legislation with Defense Secretary Marshall as the first witness.

The Georgian said the government must call up 18-year-olds or draft veterans and married men. These, he added, are the alternatives in the drive to expand the armed forces to 3.5 million men.

Vinson continued:

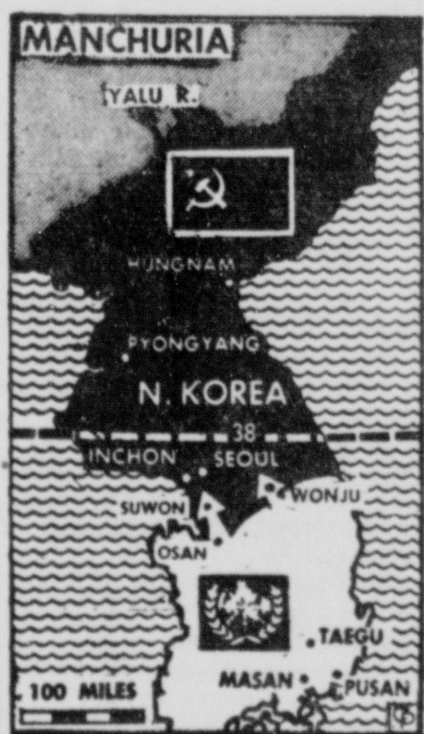

"I shall ask the committee to write into the legislation a provision requiring that drafting of (Continued on Page Two)

Brehm Demanding Dismissal Of Federal Count

Dr. Walter Brehm, representative to Congress from Ohio's 11th district, has asked that an indictment against him be dismissed because it violates the Constitution.

The Republican representative, accused of taking campaign contributions from two former employees on his office, cited that the federal grand jury indictment is vague and unconstitutional.

Brehm's attorney, Leo A. Rover, asked U. S. District Court to dismiss the indictment because: "The language of the statutes on which the indictment is based is vague, uncertain and indefinite in that it fails to establish an ascertainable (Continued on Page Two)

KEY ROAD CENTER in Central Korea, Wonsu is once again in the hands of United Nations forces. New Budget Is Damned

Message Called 'Fraud, Deceit'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Sen. Bridges, (R) N. H., charged today that President Truman's budget message is shot through with "fraud" and "deceit" and should be withdrawn.

Bridges, ranking Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, said that "hidden figures" raise the total at least $25 billion above the publicly-announced amount of $71.5 billion.

The senator contended that Mr. Truman "actually requests" authority to spend $94.5 billion and seeks another $4 billion to liquidate old bills.

Bridges suggested that perhaps the President "doesn't care" how high the national debt runs because "perhaps he thinks the fiscal disaster will wait until he has gone."

Then, Bridges added, a "Republican President and Republican Congress" will have to "assume responsibility for fiscal disaster."

BRIDGES, in the most violent attack on the budget to date, asked the President to recall it and replace it with one that is "realistic and can be honestly justified."

The New Englander said: "If Stalin himself were given the opportunity to weaken America from within, he could scarcely produce a plan better calculated to destroy this government. We are asked to spend ourselves to ruin."

The senator noted that the President issued a news release claiming a $5 billion saving on certain items. Bridges said this was "outright deceit" because programs on which the President claimed savings have been abolished.

He Doesn't Think He Is Missing

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23—Joseph L. DeAlba, a soldier who is undergoing treatment for a hand injury suffered in Japan five months ago, was visiting his mother in San Francisco yesterday when the doorbell rang.

He answered the ring and signed for a telegram.

The wire was from the Defense Department and reported that he was missing in action in Korea.

Said DeAlba:

Air Battle Biggest In War

U.S. Thunderjets Chalk Victory

TOKYO, Jan. 24—(Wednesday)—Seven to nine Soviet-type jet planes were destroyed or damaged Tuesday by U. S. Thunderjets in the Korean war's biggest air battle.

On the ground, an armored United Nations column pushed through pivotal Wonsu and five miles farther north, but a 2,000-man spearhead of four North Korean Red divisions knifed within 30 miles of the old Pusan beachhead in a wide flanking threat to the main UN forces.

The air victory by 24 Thunderjets over 18 to 28 Russian-made MIG-15s was scored high above the Northwest Korean border city of Sinuiju.

The Fifth Airforce said four Communist jets definitely were knocked down, a fifth was probably destroyed and two others probably damaged or downed.

(In Washington, Airforce headquarters said five jets were destroyed, two other jets definitely damaged and two probably damaged.)

A Fifth Airforce spokesman said Tuesday night that "some others were shot up" in the half-hour dogfight, during which nine other Thunderjets were nearby but did not enter the combat. All 33 of the American F-84 jets returned home unscathed.

THE AIR BATTLE over Sinuiju was fought Tuesday morning and began when the Communist MIG-15s hurried over the Yalu river border from Manchuria's Antung airbase to intercept the F-84 Thunderjets.

The Thunderjets had just finished attacking the Sinuiju airfield in Northwest Korea, opposite Antung, when the dizzy dogfight broke out.

It was the fourth straight day that Russian-built jets tangled with American planes in a (Continued on Page Two)

Pickaway Seen Shifted In New Congress Setup

A bill that would put Pickaway County into a different congressional district was to go to the house reference committee of the state legislature Tuesday.

The bill, introduced by Representative John Lynch, Mahoning County Democrat, would give Ohio 23 congressional districts, one more than at present. It would put Pickaway County in the fifth district. At present it is in the 11th.

Lynch said the bill was patterned on President Truman's suggestion that congressional districts include about 250,000 persons. Ohio now has 22 districts and elects one congressman-at-large.

With Pickaway in the proposed fifth district would be Adams, Brown, Clermont, Highland, Lawrence, Pike, Ross and Scioto Counties.

Present 11th district is composed of Pickaway, Ross, Fairfield, Hocking and Perry Counties.

Lynch's proposal would give the extra district congressman to Columbus and surrounding Franklin County, which, Lynch said, has too many people for one district. The county's population is 501,882.

Lynch said that, although it would make two relatively small districts, he gave the county "the benefit of the doubt" because of his belief that it is growing fast and soon would be large enough for two full districts.

Lynch would leave Cincinnati's Hamilton County with two districts and provide four for Cuyahoga County.

Air Battle Biggest In War

(Continued from Page One) mounting challenge to the UN's mastery of Korean skies. In that period 92 to 102 of the MIGs have been encountered and six to seven have been destroyed, against no American losses.

A few hours after the all-jet battle over Suinju, American Superforts roared over Pyongyang, one of the main springboards of the enemy's increasing aerial counter-strokes. The B-29s churned up the two Pyongyang airfields with 300,000 pounds of bombs.

From the central front, meanwhile, International News Service War Correspondent Robert Schakne reported that a UN tank patrol task force rammed through Wonju and five miles northward along the road to Hongchon.

The armored column thus reached within 16 miles below Hongchon which is 47 air miles east-northeast of Seoul and straddles a trans-peninsular lateral highway leading to the enemy-occupied South Korean capital.

SCHAKNE'S FIELD dispatch, received at 9:40 Tuesday night, said the northward thrust up the middle of the peninsula met no organized Red resistance. It was the biggest UN advance since the rail-highway hub city of Wonju was abandoned January 7.

At nightfall, the dispatch said, the UN troops were in occupation of Wonju and its key airfield after having reentered the city at noon Tuesday. Wonju lies 55 air miles southeast of Seoul. It bestrides a lateral road stretching 70 miles west to Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul.

The UN vanguard beyond Wonju reported that the important road to Hongchon was "in good condition." The patrol killed five or ten Red soldiers in brief skirmishes along the way.

It also dispersed more than 75 Communists on a height adjoining Hill 273 with artillery fire. The enemy group retreated to a ridge 500 yards to the north where it held on through Tuesday afternoon despite air strikes.

A 10 p. m. front dispatch from INS War Correspondent Lee Ferrero said Red guerrilla units were battling UN troops in the Andong area within 30 miles north of Waegwan.

WAEGWAN WAS the northwest "coffin corner" of the Pusan beachhead perimeter where the UN forces held on last Summer in Southeast Korea until the northward counter-offensive could be mounted. The big hub of Andong, astride vital rail and highway life lines, is 42 air miles north-northeast of Waegwan.

The Red infiltration to within 30 miles of Waegwan indicated the enemy guerrilla units already had swung behind Andong. "The fighting is continuing and the enemy is showing no disposition to flee," said Ferrero's dispatch concerning this action in the east-central area.

Circleville firemen were called at about 1 p. m. Monday to extinguish a chimney fire in the home of A. C. Wilkins, 176 Haywood avenue.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the fire was caused by a defective chimney, that no damage resulted.

HENRY MORRIS
Word has been received by relatives here of the death of Henry V. Morris, 68, of Rich Hill, Mo.

Local relatives include a sister, Miss Eva Morris Circleville Route 4, three brothers, Arthur and Charles of Route 4, and Isaac of near Kingston.

It is expected that the body will be sent to Hitler-Ludwig cemetery for burial.

Mt. Sterlingite Tops County In Corn Production

Harold Adkins of near Mt. Sterling won first place in Pickaway County in a nationwide Dekalb corn-growing contest last Summer.

Adkins won laurels in the county for producing an average yield of 130.22 bushels of corn per acre with Dekalb 627.

The contest, conducted on a selected five-acre growing basis, is sponsored by the Dekalb hybrids producers and nearly 30,000 farmers have participated in the contest.

Allen Redding of near Mt. Sterling in Madison County won the 1950 contest in Ohio by averaging 153.39 bushels per acre with Dekalb 649.

Redding also placed sixth in the U. S. and Canada with his high yield.

Roger Bennett of South Solon won first place in Fayette County with a 150.43 bushel-per-acre yield.

Flood Control Date Changed

Date of a special meeting to discuss Scioto River flood control has been switched by Circleville Chamber of Commerce from Friday to next Monday.

Chamber Secretary John Magill said members and approximately 26 guests will be addressed by Allen Pretzman, attorney for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy district.

Magill said reason for the postponement is that a previous commitment prevents the speaker from appearing Friday. The meeting will be held at noon in Court-Main restaurant.

Vinson told newsmen that he also favors an extension of the period of service for drafted men from 21 to 27 months and the "basic principle" of peacetime Universal Military Training.

Vinson said he hoped his committee could begin voting on the legislation late in February. The Selective Service law expires in June.

Powerful opposition has developed from 30 to 35 in the north-members have reported their mail is running heavily against it. Existing law provides for the drafting of men aged 19 through 25 for 21 months' service.

Firemen's $1 Truck Makes Its First Run

Circleville fire department's $1 emergency vehicle passed its first test Monday with flying colors.

The new panel truck, leased to the city at $1 per year, was used at about 2:30 p. m. Monday in an emergency inhalator call at Court and Ohio streets.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the inhalator was used upon Ben Vandagriff of South Scioto street, who fell unconscious in Ab's Place.

Vandagriff was revived by the oxygen treatment, attended by a physician and returned to his home. He was reported in improved condition Tuesday.

Chief Wise said that the truck actually had not been ready for use, but that it did the job well.

Seismological Fund Granted

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23—Cleveland's John Carroll university has received a $3,600 U. S. Army ordinance contract for research in the study of vibrations at its seismological observatory.

Carroll, under the guidance of the Rev. Henry F. Birkenbauer, has been studying the effects of vibration in industry and other fields.

The contract grew out of work done by Edward F. Carome, a Carroll undergraduate, who designed a lightweight, portable seismograph which the Army used at its Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland.

Burglar Suspects Held In Hillsboro

HILLSBORO, Jan. 23—Three suspects, two of them brothers and the other a juvenile, are in the Hillsboro County Jail today in connection with a widespread series of thefts, including the burglary of the Burch Implement Company here Jan. 10.

Sheriff's deputies announced the apprehension yesterday of Julian H. Haney, 34, and his brother Gerald, 19, both of Rainsboro, and a 17-year-old Greenfield youth.

The officers said considerable loot was recovered, including articles missing from the Burch shop.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
Our laws have grown more kindly in three thousand years, but we should not abuse lenient laws. Maybe we lean too far toward mercy to unpenitent persons who repeat crimes again and again. Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.—Exodus 21:24.

Empty Bottles Bring Trouble

SHELBY, Jan. 23 — Three youths who took something for nothing and then sold nothing for something are repenting behind bars of the Richland County jail today in Mansfield.

Tony Lillo and Carlson Gose of Willard, and Carl Ginter of Shelby received a ten-day sentence yesterday for petty larceny.

The youths were charged with taking 16 empty beer bottles from a Shelby tavern and then selling them.

Fayette Drops Hunt For Woman

WASHINGTON, C. H., Jan. 23 —Fayette County officials have called off their search for attractive Mrs. Minerva Braddock who mysteriously disappeared Dec. 18.

County Prosecutor Clark Wickens said:

"It has been definitely established that Mrs. Braddock disappeared in Cleveland. We are dropping the search because Cleveland is out of our jurisdiction."

A northwestern Georgian county, the "Free State of Dade," raised the United States flag for the first time in 85 years, ending its "secession" from the Union, July 3, 1945.

On Sunday, American Delegate Ernest Gross in a declaration of American policy, said that U. S. security interests will dictate the future of Formosa. He also said that Nationalist China must have a voice in the disposition of the island and that the U. S. supports the Nationalists' continued membership in the UN.

Despite Austin's whiplashing of the India intervention, the political committee voted by a narrow margin to grant Rau's requested 48-hour postponement of debate.

The political committee consequently will meet again at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

The vote for adjournment was 27 to 23 and six abstentions. The United States voted against. Britain and France voted in favor. Abstentions included Argentina, Ecuador, Lebanon, Australia, New Zealand and Belgium.

County PMA Aides To Attend State Parley

Three officials of the Pickaway County Production and Marketing Administration are to attend an annual conference Wednesday and Thursday in Columbus.

Representing the local PMA in the conference will be John G. Boggs, county committee chairman; Dewey Downs, committee vice-chairman; and Ralph May, member of the county committee.

Discussions by state and national leaders during the session will center around the PMA role in national defense; the 1951 agricultural conservation program; price supports, commodity loans and crop insurance programs. Emphasis will be placed on the national defense program.

Members of the 88 county committees are expected to hear such speakers as H. Laurence Manwaring, assistant to the administrator for production; Clarence Kulp, field agent for the PMA administrator; and Murphy Barnes, field agent in the agricultural conservation program branch of PMA.

Ohio speakers will be Dale C. Williams, PMA committee chairman, and Committee members Khrist Kainrad and Robert Miles.

22 County Men Take Physicals

Pickaway County Selective Service officials reported that 22 men were sent for pre-induction physical examinations Tuesday morning.

Next induction call will be Feb. 15, when 18 men will be sent from here.

In a few more days, we'll be showing HALLMARK'S new hit, titled "ONE TOO MANY."

This is the screen's first (and only) great story of Alcoholism. Because it deals with one of the world's biggest problems, we're anticipating tremendous crowds. "ONE TOO MANY" is breaking records everywhere.

Always remember this theatre has two major duties to its patrons: first, to provide the best in screen entertainment, and second, to perform every possible public service.

"ONE TOO MANY" is tops in entertainment and certainly will be an unmatched contribution to the betterment of local conditions!

Please see that our theatre is spotlessly clean. Staff members are to be neat and cheerful, as always. Let's handle the crowds with safety, smoothness and speed.

You should mention this great film to your Minister or Priest, as well as to your family and to the "Problem Drinkers" among your friends.

Wives Asking For Divorces In Court Here

Two petitions for divorce have been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court.

A petition filed by Myrtle I. Kendall seeks a divorce from William A. Kendall on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. The couple was married Oct. 11, 1933, in Greenup, Ky. They have one child.

The wife asks for the divorce, a temporary restraining order to keep the defendant from interfering with her or from disposing of property, custody of the child and permanent and temporary alimony.

Second petition was filed by June Kuhn against James Kuhn, accusing him of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. They were married July 22, 1950, have no children.

The wife asks for the divorce, temporary and permanent alimony and that the husband be enjoined from molesting her.

Also in common pleas court Charles F. Smith has been ordered by Judge William D. Radcliff to pay $10 a week temporary alimony to Betty L. Smith. The husband recently filed a divorce suit against the wife.

Freight Yard No Place For Play, Chief Says

Circleville parents whose youngsters cross freight yards south of Circleville high school on their way home were asked Tuesday to warn their children against the practice.

Police Chief William F. McCrady urged the parents to keep their children out of the freight yards on their way to and from school.

The chief's request followed a letter by W. E. Hilyard, agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad here, who pointed out that the youngsters run through the warehouse at noon and after school.

"Sooner or later someone will get hurt," Hilyard informed the chief.

Hilyard asked that a policeman be stationed there at noon and after school. McCrady substituted the warning to the parents.

Young Couple Injured In Traffic Mishap

A Circleville Route 2 man and a Chillicothe woman were injured last weekend near Chillicothe when the auto in which they rode smashed into the rear of a truck.

Richard McAbee, 19, of Circleville Route 2, driver of the auto, suffered a hand injury in the crash, while Miss Evelyn DeLong, 18, of Chillicothe, suffered forehead and lip lacerations.

State highway patrolmen said the mishap occurred at about 10:15 p. m. Sunday just north of Chillicothe. The front end of the McAbee auto was demolished. The truck driver escaped injury.

18-Year-Old Vote Urged

(Continued from Page One) (R-Cambridge) chairman of the highways committee, deferred a vote on the emergency proposal to continue 1951 auto license plates through 1954 as a steel conservation measure. It was Ferguson's committee which recommended the bill for passage.

THE BILL to give condemnation rights to a proposed conveyor belt connecting Lorain on Lake Erie with East Liverpool on the Ohio river is scheduled to be introduced today in both houses.

The "rubber railroad" bill, which would clear the way for an iron ore, coal, and limestone conveyor belt, will be sponsored in the senate by Sen. Carl Shepard (R-Akron) and in the house by Reps. Clarence Wetzel (R-Columbia) and Bishop Kilpatrick (D-Trumbull).

The bill to give the governor the power to remove sheriffs for "misconduct, bribery, gross neglect of duty, gross immorality or habitual drunkenness" was the same measure which Governor Lausche sought unsuccessfully to have enacted two years ago. It was sponsored by Rep. John O'Brien.

In the last session, it was one of Lausche's principal proposals to aid him in his battle to wipe out commercialized gambling. He now has the power to remove mayors, but has no authority over county officials.

This year, however, the governor has asked only that the attorney general be given the right to institute padlock proceedings within the affected county. He has not publicly asked for the sheriff-ouster measure.

NOT ONE BUT SIX IMAGES

Ordinary Set Picks Up Color TV Shows In East

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 — Milbourne Christopher, a local magician, performed one of his slickest tricks the other day, but without the help of his prized sorcery.

He managed to receive a 'CHS colorcast in black and white, and with five more images than the experts have been supplying to conventional color watchers.

Trouble is, Christopher's six images, which he's been able to cut down to four on his venerable TV set, are so small on his seven-inch screen that he can't much else but marvel at his accidental legerdemain.

About the only thing which would look fairly impressive on his tiny quartet of images would be Dagmar, who'd be big on anything.

"I was watching a daytime CBS show on my old seven-inch set when an announcement was made a color film would follow," Christopher advised, a note of awe still straining his credulity.

AND HE QUICKLY insisted his prized sorcery had nothing to do with it.

"I simply started fiddling with the horizontal and vertical controls when my picture faded into a mess of streaks and suddenly came up with not one, but six pictures!

"They looked like black and white miniatures of the color film. Naturally the girl singing was small, but I fiddled some more and all of a sudden there were four images, a little larger. Each was a good, only slightly jumpy picture.

"Since then when colorcasts come on I just fiddle around until my four pictures come into focus. I cut a piece of cardboard to hide the others and concentrate on one."

Dozens, and perhaps hundreds, of similar feats have been reported since the beginning of colorcasts.

There's a synchro-lock on the back of most sets by which, after industrious fiddling, six, four, and in a few cases reported, even two monochrome images have turned up.

Cancer Fund Is Allocated

CINCINNATI, Jan. 23 — The University of Cincinnati has $12,000 today for cancer research.

The cash grant was made to the college by the Montgomery County Society for Cancer Control in Dayton.

The first time a grant was ever made directly from a community chest for research, part of the money will finance the research of Dr. William Atkinson, associate professor of anatomy, concerning cancer in the female reproductive system.

Mac Delighted With Plans For Japan Treaty

TOKYO, Jan. 23—Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared today he is "delighted that at last a determined concrete effort is being made to formulate a treaty with Japan."

MacArthur's statement followed word that a United States mission headed by John Foster

Dulles is en route to Tokyo to discuss the possible treaty with him and with leaders of the Japanese government. The Dulles mission left Washington yesterday.

"It is long overdue. It should not be unduly difficult to arrive at a just and honorable agreement."

"Certainly Japan is entirely ready to accept a solution in a broad, statesmanlike spirit and is well prepared to play its full and enlightened part in world affairs.

"The United States could have sent no more welcome representative to conduct its present discussions than Ambassador Dulles and we all hail with enthusiasm the arrival and portent of his mission in Tokyo."

Accompanying Dulles as advisers are Assistant Secretary of the Army Earle D. Johnson, John D. Rockefeller III, and John Allison, State Department Japanese expert.

Little Danger Seen Of U.S. Being Overrun

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Gen. Omar N. Bradley told Congress today that military forces now planned are sufficient to avert disaster to the United States and he sees "little real danger now" of this country being "invaded and overrun."

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified before the Senate preparedness subcommittee that the defense program against air attack, combined with the efforts of Canada, would "prevent complete disaster."

However, the military's top officer cautioned that "this does not mean we believe that the air forces and anti-aircraft defenses we recommend will preclude any possibility of this country being bombed."

He said that if a "determined enemy is willing to expend the effort, some bombers will get through."

Bradley testified in support of the administration's bill to draft 18-year-olds for Universal Training and Service.

Bradley said that the military is trying to build a force that "can retaliate immediately — a force that can hunt the enemy, slowing down both the strength and tempo of his attack upon us while our mobilization gets underway."

In an obvious reference to the stationing of land forces in Europe, Bradley said:

"The closer the bases are to the enemy the easier it will be and the less costly it will be to provide a sustained retaliation air attack."

"Our strategy does not include a retraction of all of our military power to the continental limits of the North American continent when we are attacked."

Burglar Caught By 'Broadcast'

NEW RICHMOND, Jan. 23—A trio of burglars in a New Richmond grocery store were "on the air" and didn't know it until the owner showed up and shot one of them.

Wounded by a shotgun blast when he ignored Store Owner Fred Clark's order to halt was 19-year-old Fred Meyer of Hamilton. Two other men fled last night and eluded police road blocks.

Clark told police he heard the burglars over a loud-speaker system he has rigged up between the store and his nearby home.

PACIFIC IS VITAL

OF GREAT strategic value to this country are the 96 Pacific island groups that are under U. S. trusteeship. Though the total native population of the 1,460 islands was but 54,000 on last June 30, maintaining its good will in an area of the Pacific of about 3,000,000 square miles, roughly that of the United States, is for obvious reasons regarded as of high importance.

It is reported that in the last fiscal year in these islands—including the Marshalls, Carolinas and Marianas—there has been a gain in self-rule, principally at the local level. Just what form this self-rule takes among exceedingly small population groups is not specified, and probably it is not identical. Perhaps the chief importance is in their realization that the United States as trustee of the territory has the plain intention of not interfering with or even supervising more than necessary a local rule, which in many instances must be purely tribal.

Hospitals have been established and public health gains have been made. Total expenditures last year were less than $1,250,000, an amazing revelation.

Because the trusteeship under which the United States operates these islands is characterized as "strategic," the U. S. can establish bases anywhere in the area. As is well known, Eniwetok Atoll has been depopulated and secluded for reasons of security, and it is believed, but not revealed, that experiments are being made there with the hydrogen bomb.

In the event of all-out war in the Pacific, these islands could play a vital role in U. S. defense.

HELPING TITO

THERE has been much criticism of this nation's general foreign policy as it has to do with financial aid to various countries, and help given to Dictator Tito of Yugoslavia has been under considerable suspicion. It has been feared that what went to Russia's close neighbor would eventually fall into the hands of the Soviet government and be used against the United States in the event of war.

This fear has been allayed somewhat by stories to the effect that Tito has 30 well armed divisions rarin' to fight the Russians. Eisenhower has not been able to find that many in all the Marshall Plan countries he has visited.

The Yugoslav people are described as determined to oppose Russian aggression, although greatly vulnerable to it. If the countries of Western Europe were as well armed as Yugoslavia is represented to be, Moscow would hesitate to undertake the aggression now so greatly feared.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

A nation has to face up with reality sooner or later. We can wander in a miasma of hopes and wishes, but sooner or later we come up slap-bang against cold facts. No twisting and squirming helps.

No matter how much we talk about what we need to do in Europe, we are actually fighting in Asia. Americans are being killed there. Our troops have been at it since June 25, six months of heart-breaking, mind-searing, deadly fighting. Many have been killed; many are permanently disabled. I recently saw a preview of a motion picture, "Steel Helmet," which, with rare realism, describes our Korean war as a fact.

While we sit comfortably ruminating on what General Eisenhower may or may not succeed in doing in Europe, General MacArthur is actually, day by day, hour by hour, facing a merciless and formidable foe. Nor is it possible to forget Korea, while we wait for Eisenhower to make his deals in Europe. There is no waiting time while our boys are being killed.

Maybe we should never have gone into Korea! Maybe we should, in humiliation and abjectly, cut our losses there and get out! Maybe we should recognize the Soviet world as our masters!

Is not all that academic? The fact is that we are in Korea and that we cannot accept the indignity of humiliation and defeat without suffering diplomatically and economically throughout the world. A licked nation has no standing. Nor can we long remain an independent people if we accept the Soviets as our masters.

Therefore, Dean Acheson has taken the correct step when he rejected the counter-terms of Soviet China in the matter of the cease-fire. Their counter-terms involve total humiliation for the United States. They are insulting terms—the offer of a conqueror to a defeated foe who is tolerated.

Our government has no alternative but to acknowledge that Soviet China is an enemy nation making war upon the United States. That nation has rejected every effort on our part to meet them three-quarters of the way. They demand total humiliation.

If the United Nations deserts the United States at this point, there is nothing for Congress to do but to abrogate the treaty which makes us a party to the United Nations charter.

Therefore, the next step is up to the United Nations. Either that body declares Soviet China to be an aggressor or it denounces itself to be a congregation of cowards, unworthy of our membership. It seems to me that those are the alternatives.

True, if the United States abandons the United Nations, that parliament of states would have little reason for existence. Nevertheless, it would be an interesting legal point as to whether they could not, in such circumstances, continue to meet in New York. They are housed in this city by the terms of contracts with the government of the United States and the state of New York, fully covered by acts of federal Congress and the New York state legislature.

Now that the New Deal is nearing its ultimate culmination, the people are being let in on the secret that it was heading up a dead end street all the time.

DIET AND HEALTH

This Disorder Causes Loss Of Weight and Strength

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ULCERATIVE colitis is one of the most serious of the diseases affecting the large bowel. Apparently, the disorder begins in the lining membrane of the lower portion of the bowel, which gradually undergoes changes leading to the formation of infected and bleeding sores. These changes are reflected in the classic symptoms of diarrhea, blood and pus in the bowel movements, a loss of weight and strength, and anemia due to the frequent loss of blood.

Unfortunately, the exact cause of this condition has not been discovered despite repeated attempts to do so. Recent opinion holds that emotional disturbances play a part in bringing it about but, according to Dr. Sidney A. Portis, treatment demands not only psychological help but a strict medical program as well.

Control of Diet

To begin with, careful control of the diet is required. Such things as stimulating beverages must be eliminated. Fried foods, gravies, sauces, raw fruits and vegetables, whole-grain cereals, oils, nuts, spices, and highly-seasoned foods must also be avoided. It is generally advised that these patients refrain from smoking. Milk should be boiled for from three to five minutes. At the beginning of the treatment, the patient is fed easily-digested foods which leave little bulk or roughage, but the diet must, nevertheless, be kept high in protein foods, such as meat, milk and eggs, and should contain all of the necessary vitamins in liberal amounts, and a moderate portion of starchy foods. Iron-containing foods, too, must be given in adequate quantities, and some iron-containing medicine also is of help. The patient should receive between-meal feedings in order to keep up his nutrition.

Drugs that are employed include atropine, which is given three times a day—at mealtimes and before retiring. Quieting drugs, such as phenobarbital, may have a beneficial effect on the muscle disturbances which accompany the disorder.

Digestive Ferments

Another preparation known as sodium alkyl sulphate is also prescribed by some physicians. This substance has a tendency to inactivate certain of the digestive ferments. These ferments or enzymes may play a role in causing the ulcers to form in the body. Certain of the sulfonamide drugs may also be useful, since they tend to check infection in the bowel. The antibiotics do not seem to be of any particular value in this disease. Liver extract may be given by injection into a muscle. These liver extracts furnish a great deal of the vitamin B-complex, and are also helpful in overcoming the anemia. If a patient is acutely sick, he is best treated in the hospital. If a great deal of damage to the large bowel has already occurred, operative treatment may be necessary.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D.R.: What is vitamin B-12 and what is it used for?
Answer: Vitamin B-12 is a vitamin which has to do particularly with blood formation. Recent evidence has shown that it is important also in growth and normal health. It is used particularly in anemia or lack of coloring in the blood cells in the blood.

SYNOPSIS

Was Glendon Coldfield a suicide or was he murdered by a member of his very conservative and literary family, to conceal a family scandal? That is the question which the victim's widow, Sylvia Coldfield, asks omniscient detective Henry Gamadge to answer. Gamadge plans a bold strategy to rescue Sylvia from the family surveillance under which she is literally held prisoner. In the dusty old shop of J. Hall, collector of rare books and letters, Gamadge turns up a clue which may prove motive for the Coldfield murder.

CHAPTER SEVEN

HALL had sat back in his deep chair after listening to Gamadge's plea, and his eyes were on Gamadge's. There was something in the expression of that old friend and customer that changed his truculent mood. After a long silence, he said without turning, "Albert, find out what this idiot wants, and do it—if it won't prejudice the business."

Albert came into the room. Gamadge said, "Albert, I want you to get this out-of-town number, and ask for Mrs. Glendon Coldfield. Give your occupation and this address, on request. They'll probably say that she can't come to the telephone; so then you leave this message: Mr. Glendon Coldfield's order has arrived from England. We have the crossword puzzle books, and the out-of-print novels; all the Shearings and that Chesterton—The Man Who Was Thursday. We now hear that Mr. Glendon Coldfield has died. Will Mrs. Coldfield accept delivery, or would she like us to dispose of the consignment? We may be able to do so. The bill amounts to about—"

"Twenty dollars?" barked Hall. "Twenty dollars? Are you out of your mind, Gamadge?"

"Some lucky bargains," said Gamadge mildly.

"And we can't fill any such order."

"I'll fill it—all but the crosswords, which got held up somehow and aren't in the package. But you won't be required to fill it. You can put in any trimmings you like, Albert; just what you'd say normally. Delay, slow going through the customs, and so on. He added, as Albert accepted the paper, "I'll be at your elbow."

"I guess it'll be all right, Mr. Hall," said Albert, who was not allowed to use the expression O.K. Hall leaned his head back against the cushion of his chair. "Where's the code?" he asked with annoyance.

"I didn't dare put in the best part of it," said Gamadge gloomily. "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." He followed Albert into the front office. Albert was already calling information. Gamadge hung over him while he got The Maples, Cliffside.

"Mrs. Glendon Coldfield?" asked Albert. A rather rough, husky female voice answered:

"This is Mrs. Ira Coldfield. Who's speaking? Mrs. Glendon Coldfield can't come to the telephone just now."

Albert droned, "Speakin' for J. Hall, bookseller. I have a message here for Mrs. Glendon Coldfield—I'm Mr. Hall's clerk, in charge of orders."

"Oh," said the husky voice. "You can give the message to me. I'll tell Mrs. Coldfield. What is it?"

"It's this English consignment finally came in," said Albert. "There was a good deal of delay on it, and now we hear that Mr. Coldfield—Mr. Glendon Coldfield—died."

"Yes, he did. What's this consignment?" asked Mrs. Ira Coldfield impatiently.

"We have the crossword puzzle books, and all the Shearings, and the other out-of-print novels—the Chesterton, too—Man Who Was Thursday. You got that, Mrs. Coldfield?"

"Yes, I've got it. Are they paid for?"

"No, they had to pick them up, you know. Secondhand. Takes quite some time to locate those things, if you can at all."

"I suppose so."

"We got some bargains. The bill won't be much more than say thirty dollars. But Mr. Hall says to tell Mrs. Glendon Coldfield that if she don't care to accept delivery, we might be able to dispose of the lot elsewhere."

"Oh. You could?"

"There's quite a demand." "Well, that's very nice of you," said Mrs. Coldfield. "I'd better speak to my sister-in-law."

"Have you a pencil, Madam? She might not remember what the order was; she might not know."

"That's all right," said Mrs. Ira Coldfield, still more impatiently. "I've got what you said. Hold the wire."

Albert looked up at Gamadge, put his hand over the receiver, and said, "She sounds dumb. We might put in that part of the code you left out."

"Better not," said Gamadge. "There are other people in the family, and they're not so dumb—or so I'm told."

The husky voice soon returned. "My sister-in-law says to thank you very much, but she'll accept delivery. Understands all about it."

Cindy Heller
Many times a queen.

NEW YORK—in his recent review of a cheerful little book by a Chinese about New York, old mandarin Christopher Morley said gleefully that in this age no city is more surely doomed than this. The bright little book, he added, was a candle flickering in the wind of a hurricane.

This is true. New York now is a gray and depressing place, with everyone finally beginning to talk about possible atomic attacks, after having thought about it for years now and having kept their thoughts to themselves.

All this makes me even more thankful than ever for the reappearance of Phil Wasserman, who more than virtually anyone I know seems to go through the years gently thumbing his nose at Life. Mr. Wasserman is a press agent.

He is a good one and he is publicity director for the Emil Mogul company, a local advertising firm, but he never has had cards printed saying "Public relations counsel." "I am a press agent," Mr. Wasserman says.

Mr. Wasserman's latest dispatches carry with them all the outlandish whimsy and outrageous claims that newspapermen have come to expect of him. One of his accounts, for instance, is a shoe polish company. Mr. Wasserman relays word that a local actress has been awarded by this company the "Polished Performance Award" for January.

Another account is a macaroni company. We learn that the employees of this company have voted actress Silvana Mangano the "Tastiest Italian Dish of the Year." Still another message tells us that special scenes in a movie being made in New York are being filmed in a shoe store maintained by a company Mr. Wasserman represents.

In these, Mr. W. is only half-trying. He once represented a watch company and came up with different watch straps for all occasions, including milk for evening.

Representing a bubble-gum firm, he dubbed Cindy Heller, the girl of many titles, "Miss Bazooka of 1949." Miss Heller, incidentally, was invaluable to Mr. W. before she turned from being Miss So-and-so to being a night club comedienne, which she is now. Every time we turned around, Cindy had been labeled something new by the feverish Mr. W.

ONE OF MR. WASSERMAN'S MASTERPIECES almost backfired. Several years ago a client of his was a Seventh avenue clothing store. Mr. W., learning that a local ice company would furnish real snow in the middle of summer for $7 a ton, held a "Summer Snow Festival" in the clothing store's parking lot, complete with a bathing-suit beauty named "Miss Summer Snow Queen."

Then he went into a telephone booth and called police, as an irate citizen, demanding that the girl be arrested, since it is illegal to wear a bathing suit in the streets of New York. The crowd car came—and the owner of the clothing store queered the whole venture by rushing out and pacifying the policemen, probably with honeyed words and the promise of a discount on a two-pants suit. Mr. Wasserman was crestfallen.

Mr. W.'s demands on newspapers are so credulous that more often than not he gets away with his denuded schemes. Every eight months he picks a shoe-store queen. Why every eight months? "I figure that's about how often the papers will go for the stunt," he says blandly.

Sometimes clients balk at his extreme methods; his current spaghetti company, for example, turned thumbs down on his enthusiastic proposal to hold a knitting contest with spaghetti.

THE TIME MR. WASSERMAN ALMOST MOVED King Michael of Romania to Lakewood, N. J., may be the high point of his career. Mr. W. was representing the town of Lakewood, and when the Reds booted King Mike out of his homeland, Mr. W. promptly planted a story in the papers that the king was considering moving to Lakewood.

The story appeared first in the Lakewood paper, after which Mr. Wasserman called the big dailies in New York, announced suavely that he was a member of the Lakewood Chamber of Commerce and suggested there "may be a story here."

Most of them bit, and the subsequent publicity was invaluable to Lakewood. One of the papers had the effrontery to question the news and cabled King Michael. "I never heard of Lakewood, N. J.," he replied.

But anyway, here in these dark days in Manhattan is Mr. Wasserman among us once more, awarding a halvah-candy "Oscar" to Jimmy Durante, looking eagerly around for a Miss Spaghetti of 1951 and generally behaving as if the newspaper-reading public consisted of children waiting for his fantasies. Which, oddly enough, we are.

wouldn't have had time to drag heels and say "let's wait some more."

In fact they say "let's wait some more" so often at the UN it must be a waiting room.

But it's nice to know that this is the nation that labored and brought forth this mouse. Up to now the mouse has gotten the cheese and we've gotten the trap.

The French are exceedingly hopeful the UN will decide not to meet in their country next year. Things are fairly peaceful there right now.

8 United Nations Briefed
in Talk Given Before
Session Of Monday Club

Mrs. Deming Is Speaker

Mrs. Barton Deming chose eight member nations with the United States family, in similar circumstances, as a yardstick when she spoke before the Monday Club this week.

In her talk, "Folks Living In the United Nations," Mrs. Deming said, "While the world waits on the anxious maneuvers of diplomats, life on the familiar level of hearth and home continues with the consistency of the tides."

The countries she chose to discuss are Pakistan, Equatorial Africa, Mexico, France, Egypt, England, Nationalist China, and Czechoslovakia.

Since the good earth is the common denominator of existence, Mrs. Deming told of the farm life in these countries. She said:

"On the farm the woman is the undisputed ruler of the kitchen whether it is a sun baked village in the valley of the Nile or a farm in Iowa."

"It is a farm wife's duty to arise early and light the fire and in all nine countries the wives are up at 6:30. In Egypt the farm wife bakes a sort of bread in a clay oven, in Czechoslovakia in a wood stove while the wife in Pakistan in a simple mud veranda roofed with reeds to keep out the scorching sun."

In France the kitchen serves as a dining room and a bed room. A stove without a chimney serves the Mexican country woman and Equatorial African women cook out of doors stoves, very crude and made out of rocks. The Englishwoman has a neat kitchen in her stone farm house which dates from the 18th century. The United States is the only one who has electric refrigeration. She has running water and cooks with gas.

"In most countries hunger is satisfied three times a day and children are their constant concern. Men live by rice in the Orient and by wheat in the Western World. If our men farmers were to meet at a wayside inn, they would find much to talk about though they speak different languages for their common words concern the soil, rain, drought, weeds and insect-pests. Relaxation and play differ greatly in the various nations. In Egypt the men sit late in the evenings smoking their water pipes and sipping coffee."

"In Parkistan small boys gather to play Kudi-Kodi, a sort of running wrestling game. There is little leisure for the rice farmer of Parkistan. His greatest pleasure is to gossip at twilight. In England there are lights in the Pubs until 10 o'clock and many farmers find relaxation in exchanging farm news in these places. The English farmer is also an enthusiastic hunter while his wife likes the quieter game of croquet."

"In China there is almost no pleasure except to sit in the shade and fan oneself. There the monotony of the work is only broken by special events of birth, marriages and death. In Mexico, while big city crowds go to bull fights, cock fighting is the pastime of the peasants. Here men occasionally hunt and fish. High in the African Plateau hunting is also a favorite sport. Here the hunting is done with home made bows and arrows and the game is wild pig and buffalo. When the hunt is successful, the tribesmen gather for a dance to the weird music of homemade harps and drums made of elephant ears."

"Music is important to the French farmer who loves to attend music festivals. They also like to dance and entertain friends at home. Our American farmer and his family love dancing and card parties but best of all love nothing better than to go fishing in between growing and harvesting seasons."

Mrs. Deming concluded her talk by saying, "In spite of the different languages, alphabets, customs, and problems, people are just people the world over."

British Women Increase Curves Under Austerity

LONDON, Jan. 23 — British women have more curves under the postwar austerity of today than they had under prewar plenty.

Clothing and corset manufacturers, shopkeepers and scientists all agree that the female form in Britain today has plumpitude plus.

Larger and stronger corsets have been snapped up to play an aggressive role in battles of the bulges all over Britain.

Shops today sell twice as many "outsized" dresses as they did a few years ago. And stocksize, readymade frocks need altering to fit the changing shapes of British women.

With women apparently helpless against the advance of the "Amazon look," scientists and clothing experts are missing tape measures to grapple with the problem of larger women.

A full-fledged "body measurements" committee under the chairmanship of Glasgow university's James Gunnison has begun a nationwide survey of feminine figures.

In London, burly Captain Philip Kunick has trained a team of girls as "body measurers" and altogether the team will record the shape, size and weight of 10,000 British women between the ages of 18 and 70.

Some 37 measurements will be taken from each woman.

Clothing manufacturers will use these measurements to plan better-fitting, readymade clothes in the right quantities.

Mr. Damillot found that taking HADACOL helped his system overcome a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Damillot's statement: "My first bottle of HADACOL convinced me that HADACOL was what I needed for the gas on my stomach at night. I could not keep food on my stomach, but after the first bottle I was going great. Now I eat bacon and eggs, and other foods that never would stay with me. I also can sleep well at night. Thanks to HADACOL I will never be without it, and can recommend it to all who suffer with the above ailments that I had. I know because I have suffered for quite some time."

Fashion Flash

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—Women will wear bowties to match their fellas' four-in-hands this Spring.

Stylists of scarf-wear have introduced slender (two-inch wide) ladies' ties in silk prints to match spruce male ties. Each was priced at $5.

The novelty ties were only one phase of the fashion prediction for Spring scarfwear.

Also in the high-style neckwear line were silk print "jabot" scarves—designed with a two-inch-wide band to circle the throat, ending in four-inch-square squares that looped into ascot tabs at side or center front of the neckline.

Other novelties included squar silk and silk chiffon scarfs printed to simulate old french paintings, playing cards, flowers and fairy fables.

Most unusual of all the scarf prints was the "shortland" model—stenciled with copies, in shorthand, of speeches by famous politicians of the 20th Century.

Fashionable legs are being cued to look nude this Spring.

High-style hosiery makers are cutting down on the output of rhinestone-studded seams and flowered clocks. Instead they'll be presenting the sheerest, barest, least re-inforced stockings imaginable for next season.

The color in the new hosiery will come in barely perceptible shadings which will make a lady's legs look nude—but with an apricot, rose, taupe, mauve or raspberry tint.

It's these muted overtones that will keep stockings a necessity. Natural tans and leg makeups can't simulate that apricot glow!

Rev. Crabtree Is Honored By Congregation

The Rev. Glenn Crabtree of Pleasant View Evangelical United Brethren church was honored Sunday evening when a group of friends and members met in his home for a covered dish supper.

Rev. Mr. Crabtree entertained the group by showing films and colored slides and films.

At the conclusion of the evening a gift offering was presented to Rev. Mr. Crabtree.

Those present for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Poling, Miss Maxine Poling, Mrs. Ada Aldenderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morris, Mrs. Aaron Poling, Miss Marie Poling, Mrs. Ralph Heffner, Miss Mildred Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Valentine and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Poling, Mrs. Helen Strous, Ned Strous, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and children, Mrs. Merrill Imler and daughter, John

Pontius EUB Class Plans Dinner Project

Gleaners Sunday School class of Pontius Evangelical United Brethren church met Sunday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stockman on East Franklin street.

There were 16 members present at the meeting with Mrs. Charles Walker, newly elected president, presiding. Plans were made for having a sale dinner in February at the Pickaway Livestock sale barn. The group voted to donate $25 toward the purchase of a new piano for the church, and $5 to the polo fund.

The evening was spent in games and contests and refreshments were served by the hostess.

COOKBOOK of the WEEK

FROM THE COLLECTION OF
24 OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST COOKBOOKS
Sponsored by this Newspaper

Banana circles make attractive and nutritious topping for cake. This recipe is one of 250 in the book being offered by independent grocers here.

Bananas are featured in this Gold Nugget Cake, but all kinds of fruits fresh and canned, are utilized in the unusual recipes offered in The Circleville Herald's third book, 250 Classic Cake Recipes. Even leftover canned fruits come into their own in the luscious suggestions for upside-down cakes, and there are all kinds of ideas for cakes with fruit pulp or fruit fillings in this bright new cookbook.

Here's how to make this attractive cake:

GOLD NUGGET CAKE

2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 cup mashed bananas
1/2 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 bananas, sliced

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add milk to mashed bananas. Cream shortening with sugar until fluffy. Add eggs

Editor Says To Read War News With Skepticism

War news must be read with a healthy skepticism.

That was the advice given members of Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening by James Crossley, managing editor of the Columbus Citizen.

Declaring that war news falls into three categories, Crossley listed them as:

1. The military communique, which is a statement of fact. If it comes from the war zone, it contains little "bad" news. "Bad" news is shunted off to higher echelons in Washington or the White House for release.
2. Commentators and columnists, who express their personal opinions based on their own experiences and prejudices. In the case of radio commentators, the sponsor will generally sway the opinions expressed.
3. THE HUMAN interest type story in which a front line soldier or general officer will be interviewed. Here again, opinions are personal, may or may not be based on fact and are subject to prejudices.

Crossley said that readers of newspapers must be their own interpreters on war news. They must ferret out the source, determine the amount of personal prejudice and ascertain the degree of believability present.

The Columbus newsman said the reader must understand both the mechanical and human elements involved in getting a war story from the front to the reader's home.

He explained that the war correspondent is human, has prejudices and generally has no military mind.

He reports what he sees, sends his dispatch to a military censor. After that, the report is sent to Tokyo where other humans with prejudices handle it, boil it down and send it at high speeds over radio or cable to the states. It is received on the west coast and may be cabled on to New York for further handling before it is sent out to the consumer newspapers.

There it is handled again by humans who have personal prejudices and it eventually gets to the reader.

IN THIS PROCESS, Crossley contended, the original story may have been changed. And the reader consumes it—with digestion tempered by the reader's own prejudices.

Going back to the war front, Crossley described, in effect, the scene thus:

"Any army is a mass of confusion. Here you have 200,000 men who receive thousands of words of instructions and many batches of papers telling them how to advance five miles. The enemy is the same and we only hope we are less confused than he is.

And all the while, we have non-military persons—stupid to the military—who are attempting to report what is going on.

He said that the Korean war has brought home to the average newspaper reader the long-established military fact that wars are fought primarily to destroy the enemy and that the loss or gain of territory is of secondary importance.

He urged that newspaper subscribers read their papers carefully, never take a rumor for fact until it has appeared two or three times and remember that all political and economic news today is linked directly with military movements and programs.

Vast Research Program Listed In Polio Fight

March of Dimes funds are financing vast scientific research investigations aimed at overcoming the virus that causes infantile paralysis.

Since the establishment of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis 13 years ago, more than $10 million has been authorized for virus research alone. Intensive projects are under way in leading institutions throughout the nation, where men of science seek a means of prevention and cure of polio.

In Ohio, March of Dimes funds amounting to $505,663.69 have been allocated at seven institutions for virus research. The total for all polio research, including the virus phase, is $13,100,000 for more than 530 grants and appropriations in 94 leading institutions throughout the nation.

So far many promising clues have been uncovered but there is much more work necessary before the final solution is at hand. The work goes forward, thanks to voluntary contributions to the March of Dimes.

Dimes and dollars given to the 1951 March of Dimes campaign in Pickaway County will help speed the conquest of polio.

UNCLE SAM'S 'MONEY MURDERER'

NEW YORKER CHOPS UP $15 BILLION IN PAPER CURRENCY

By JOHN GOETTE
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—Wholesale mutilation of the finely engraved likeness of such venerated Americans as Washington, Lincoln, Hamilton, Jefferson, Grant and Jackson would be highly unpatriotic—and expensive—for any other than Paul Gauthier.

For 19 years he has officiated as callous headman in the "Chop House" of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. There his deadly cancelling machine has guillotined the portraits of our national heroes on some 4,000,000,000 soiled bank notes.

In his steel barred, heavily guarded cancelling and cutting section of the Federal Reserve Bank, Gauthier lowers his sharp blade on 4,000 bank notes at a stroke, cutting them into two sections with equal ease regardless of whether they are one dollar or one thousand dollar denominations.

More than $15,000,000,000 is a modest estimate of the total legal tender Gauthier has first perforated with four diamond shaped holes and then severed in two. This is over one half of the $27,000,000,000 worth of greenbacks currently tucked in American wallets.

ONE FUNCTION of the Federal Reserve Bank is to keep the nation supplied with crisp new bills. Withdrawn notes are hauled to Gauthier by the hand-truckload and his murderous skill speeds 300,000 of them to oblivion every working hour.

Uncle Sam is not one to take risks with his gigantic bank roll even after this ruthless Federal Reserve headman has slit the notes in two.

The bank cautiously ships the top and lower sections by separate train to the Treasury in Washington for final destruction.

In Gauthier's money-sated eyes even the $1,000 bills doomed to his destructive attention are like dirty old newspapers. As for mere dollar bills, he yearly stacks 193,000,000 of them on his guillotine.

Indicative of the money handling habits of the American is the ratio of other bills which Gauthier cancels.

Fives reach his Chop House at about 46,000,000 yearly while twenties are soiled to the cancelling point at but 12,000,000 a year.

A brighter side of Gauthier's daily task of running through Uncle Sam's bank roll is his execution of the two-dollar bills which so often misguide the man in the street into spending them as ones.

Gauthier considers it an especially worthy public service as his trusty blade annually puts an end to the circulation of some 3,900,000 of these confusing twos.

Short Man, High Heels Bare Big Diamond Loot

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—A short man with heels so high that he jittered was held for grand jury action today as the accused smuggler of $500,000 worth of industrial diamonds into the United States.

Five-foot-six Leiser Weitman's unusually high heels aroused the suspicions of customs officers when he arrived at Idlewild Airfield from Brussels Sunday.

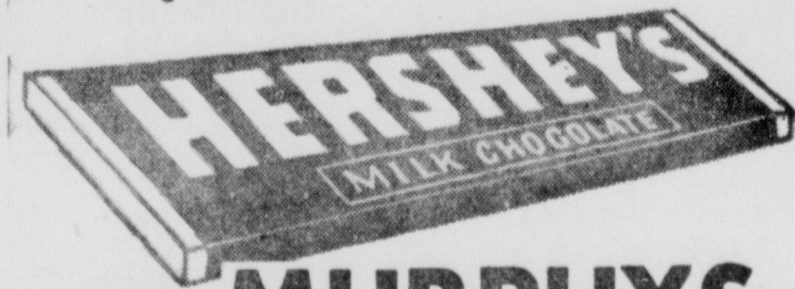

Removing the hollowed heels, officers found 11 packages containing more than 250 diamonds. They totalled more than 700 carats. Customs officials said it was the largest single smuggling attempt they could recall.

Weitman, a native of Austria who has been making his home in Brooklyn, described himself as a teacher. He at first denied knowledge that the diamonds were in his oversized heels and then said a man in Brussels had promised him $100 to bring them into the United States.

But Frank J. Parker, chief assistant U. S. attorney, charged that Weitman was acting for an international smuggling ring bringing the diamonds into this country for black market sale.

Rockefeller's Granddaughter Gives Dollars To Navy Boots

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 — A "mystery woman," who has been passing out dollar bills in the same fashion Multi-Millionaire John D. Rockefeller used to hand out dimes, was identified today as his granddaughter.

She is Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard, 49, of Lone Tree Farms, Middletown, Conn.

The granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller on the maternal side, who is also a descendant of the paternal side of Cyrus McCormick, multi-millionaire Chicago industrialist, explained she gave several hundred dol-

A TOUCH OF GLADNESS is in this war scene in Korea as two Korean girls dig into rations given to them by GIs. POLIO BATTLED IN KOREA

Marines Average $4.41 In March Of Dimes Drive

IN KOREA, Jan. 23—There were no hour-long star-studded radio programs that appeal to listeners to contribute to the March of Dimes.

There were no motion pictures showing the effects of dreaded polio on children or the way contributions go to combat the disease.

Yet the combat veterans of the First Battalion of the famous First Marine Regiment in Korea gave nearly $4,000 in their three-day drive to the March of Dimes. Money collected in cigar boxes, C-ration cartons and ammunition cases.

The money flowed in from the battalion's five companies, and reached a total of $3,922.73—an average of $4.41 per man.

With this figure the battalion members proudly proclaim their unit to be champion of the First Marine Division.

LT. WILLIAM DRAPER of Holland, Mich., battalion motor transport and special services officer who acted as chairman of the campaign, got the drive underway at an appropriate time—the day after pay day.

Lt. Cmdr. William N. Lyons of Chicago, regimental chaplain attached to the battalion, assisted Draper in posting signs advertising the drive was on.

A large board with individual "thermometers" for each company was set up to register the "heat" of the drive.

Everybody got into the act. Marines who owed money were approached by their buddies, demanding that the loan be paid back so it could be tossed into the company donation box.

Contributions seemed to pour in during the morning, the collectors bringing in huge sums to their officers and explaining: "I had a rough night of collecting."

The explanation was simple—these early morning contributors were donating their night's poker take to the March of Dimes.

Small thermometers in the company areas showed competition between outfits and pla-lars to Navy recruits as "a belated Christmas gift."

She added: "I play Santa Claus a lot as I go through life, but I don't brag about such things as this."

The story was revealed by Navy Chief Petty Officer Stephen Kotelas of Bridgeport, Conn. His assignment is to escort Navy boots from Newport, R. I., following their induction at recruiting headquarters in New York. He said:

"Last Tuesday at 6 p. m. in Grand Central Terminal I see this woman eyeing me. She comes over and asks how many men I've got with me. I'm not telling her much, having never seen her before.

"She asks me if I got fifty men. I said 'yes.' She said maybe I got one hundred men. I said 'yes.' So she hands me a hundred dollar bill and tells me to go divide it up with the men. Then I break down and tell her I got 130 men so she peels off fifty dollars more. I offer her the extra twenty back. She says to keep it for myself, telling me I'm their chief and I ought to get some of the money.

"She gets on the train with us, gives the men a real sure-fire pep talk, telling them they are in a tough outfit and she demands that above all else they remain faithful to the United States and the Navy. She gets off the train in New Haven.

"The next night, same time, same place, she bobs up again and goes through the same routine. I got 135 men this time. She gives me $135 and an extra $50 for myself.

"On the train I have a heart to heart talk with her. She tells me her name is 'Major Hubbard' and that she was a Wac in World War II. She also told me she was a granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller. I don't know whether she was kidding me or not. Before she got off the train the last time in New Haven she told me, 'well, I'll see you again.' Then she disappeared, but not for good I hope."

Mrs. Hubbard said she enlisted in the Wac in April, 1943, and served until May, 1946, rising from private to technical sergeant.

As for calling herself "Major Hubbard," she explained she is a "major" on the staff of Gen. Sam E. Dockrell, commandant of Putnam phalanx in the Centennial Legion which she described as "the oldest veterans group in the United States."

Mrs. Hubbard is the daughter of Harold McCormick and Edith Rockefeller McCormick. She is the widow of Elisha Dyer Hubbard.

Conservancy Unit To Face Series Of New Protests

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—The 17 judges on the board of the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District will be greeted with a series of protests against the proposed Mill Creek dam when they meet Feb. 13 in Columbus.

The latest objection is a petition in the common pleas court by the Central Ohio Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., which charges the proposed reservoir would cost Columbus an annual 2,500,000 pounds of milk through the loss of pasture and grazing acreage.

The village of Ostrander also has protested on the ground that the plan calls for the destruction of one-half to two-thirds of the town.

The American Aggregates Corp. of Columbus has asked the district to amend its plan to provide for a new Scioto river channel which would keep floods from the company's property during times of high water.

Crackdown Said Given Officials On Statements

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—President Truman cracked down on all public statements by top federal civilian and military leaders six weeks ago—shortly after the Chinese Communist offensive started in Korea.

It was learned today that a memorandum was circulated by cabinet members at the President's request in early December.

The document, distributed in slightly different form by the different government departments, states that its purpose is "not to curtail the flow of information, but to assure its accuracy."

Government sources revealing the main content of the memorandum said it undoubtedly started reports that General MacArthur has been "gagged" and "can no longer speak for his own command."

The memorandum is marked "confidential," a low secrecy classification. This has been sufficient to prevent its disclosure in the six weeks since it reached all federal outposts including the Far East and Alaska.

The main instructions in the memorandum are the following:

1. "Do not discuss government policy in fields not your own."
2. Use "caution in public statements" and reduce the volume of these statements.
3. Submit public statements to the State or Defense Department in Washington for clearance when there is a possibility that they may conflict with the government's diplomatic or military policies.
4. Statements on budgetary matters and related government policies must be referred to the appropriate agency for clearance.

Farmers Await Output Guides

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The Agriculture Department is expected to announce production guides for 1951 crops within the next two weeks.

The guides, said to be in the form of national bushelage required per crop, are supposed to take the place of acreage allotments dropped this year on corn and wheat and other crops.

The idea of the production guides is to show farmers what crops the government believes should be emphasized in this year's production.

Nation's Steel Mills Slated To Set New Record

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—The nation's steel mills this week will turn out more than two million tons of steel for the first time in the history of the industry.

The American Iron and Steel Institute reported that operations in the current week are scheduled at 100 and 9-10ths percent of the industry's increased 1951 capacity. This is calculated to produce 2,017,000 tons of ingots and steel for castings.

The current operating rate will be 1 and 3-10ths points above last week's figure of 99 and 6-10ths percent, which accounted for 1,930,600 tons. A year ago, the industry produced at 100 and 1-10th percent of its 1950 capacity rate to bring forth 1,790,000 tons. A year ago, the industry produced at 99 and 9-10ths percent of capacity.

Bill Asks Vote For All GIs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Rep. Edwin Arthur Hall, (R-N.Y.), has introduced a bill which would allow every member of the armed forces to vote regardless of age.

Hall told the House: "If they are old enough to fight, they are old enough to vote."

991,000 tons and was a new tonnage peak up to that time. A month ago, the industry produced at 100 and 1-10th percent of its 1950 capacity rate to bring forth 1,790,000 tons. A year ago, the industry produced at 99 and 9-10ths percent of capacity.

Philadelphians today mourned the death of Lawson Robertson, one of the nation's all-time greats of track and field.

Robertson, 67, died last night after a long illness.

"Robbie" had competed or coached in every Olympic game from 1904 until ill health forced his retirement in 1947. He had been track and field coach at the University of Pennsylvania for 31 years.

He participated in the Olympic games of 1904, 1906 and 1908 as a sprinter and jumper. He moved up to assistant coach in 1912 and '20, and served as head mentor in '24, '28, '32 and '36.

All the teams which Robertson served as head coach turned in the highest team scores in track and field. Olympic team winners are not designated officially in track and field.

Robertson, who came to Brooklyn from Scotland when he was nine years old, never participated in sports in high school. He won his first national

It's Time To Order Baby Chicks, County Agent Says

Good Profit This Year Is Predicted

Tips On Purchase Given By Best

Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, Tuesday glanced at the calendar and into his crystal ball and declared:

"It's time to think about getting that baby chick order placed."

"If you have the equipment and the buildings, indications are at the present time you should realize a reasonable profit from your layers this coming year, if you will start now with the right kind of plans."

"The poultry outlook can be ever so good and some folks will lose money on their poultry business because they do too many things that are wrong. Now is the time to start plans for a full laying house next fall."

Pullets come into production at five to six months of age.

Highest egg prices are practically always enjoyed in August, September, October, November and December.

Best made the following suggestions:

Order chicks now for February or early March delivery.

Many times poultrymen start shopping to get the cheapest price on chicks. Usually they get just what they pay for in their brood of chicks and all too often they get more than they pay for in the form of pullorum disease the agent said.

BABY CHICKS inherit: (1) rate of maturity, (2) rate of production, (3) persistency of production, (4) broadness, (5) egg size and color which are all very important factors affecting the profitability of a flock of chickens, he said.

Pullorum disease is transmitted from the adult hen through the egg to the chick; it causes heavy chick losses for the first three weeks of their life.

Buy chicks from a hatcheryman that is following the National Poultry Improvement Plan.

Regarding this group, Best declared:

"These folks are breeding desirable inheritance characteristics in their chicks."

"They are testing and eliminating hens that show any signs of carrying pullorum disease, thus insuring their chicks to be free of the disease."

"Ohio is one of the largest hatchery states in the Union. Why import chicks from a distant area, when we have the cream of the crop at home? In fact, Pickaway County has hatcherymen that are producing outstanding chicks."

"Your hatcheryman knows the business. He can be a big help to you."

Many people ask why they should buy sexed or straight run chicks.

Best says:

"USUALLY THERE are three factors to consider: (1) price difference, (2) brooding room and facilities (remember you want enough pullets for that laying house) and (3) use you can make of the cockerels (red meat will not be cheap or plentiful). Use your cockerels to replace some of it at home and on the market." He concludes:

"The success of your poultry business this coming year, to a large extent, depends upon you. Start it now and start it right."

Acheson Shows No Need To Quit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Secretary of State Acheson has told Congress he does not consider himself a fixture in the post.

But he gave GOP legislators who are demanding his resignation no indication that he will quit in the near future.

Acheson remarked during a hearing on extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act that he does not believe he will be secretary of state "three years from now."

Radar Tracking Of B-36s Said Of Top Value

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The Airforce claimed today that interception and tracking of six B-36 bombers returning from England proves the value and efficiency of the nation's protective radar network.

The six bombers left Carswell Airforce Base near Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 13 and returned yesterday on what was termed a "routine training flight."

But the flight provided training for radar men as well as for the bomber crews. Each returned from England to the United States by a separate route. And each was picked up by radar as it approached this country.

An Airforce spokesman said that the bombers made no particular effort to "sneak through" the radar fence, even though their routes were varied and not announced to radar operators.

The spokesman explained: "The major purpose of the maneuvering was to give our radar stations training in interception and tracking the planes rather than seeing whether the planes would escape detection."

Prices On Soaps Going Up, Too

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—Two of the country's big three soap makers have announced price increases of six percent on household soap. The third also will raise its prices.

Announcements of the increases were made by Procter and Gamble, the country's largest soap manufacturer, and the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. Both cited rising costs of oils and packaging.

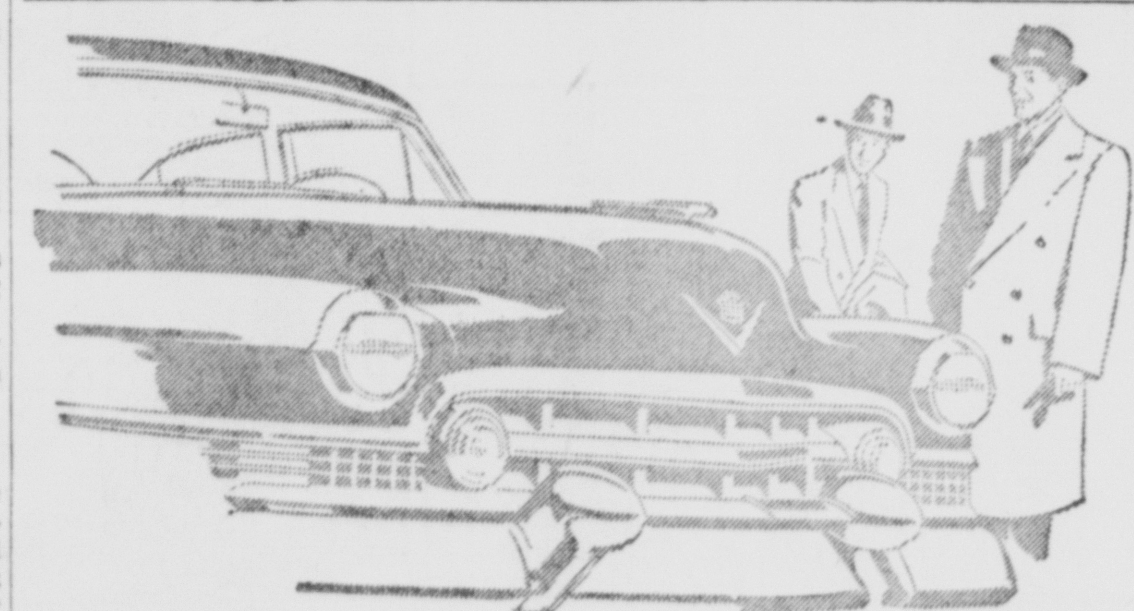

The third firm, Lever Brothers, said it notified the Economic Stabilization Agency last week of its intention to raise prices.

The increases will boost the retail price of popularly-used hand soap a half-cent a cake and box of soap powder two cents.

LOSES 30 LBS. 6 Inches at Waistline

Mrs. C. S. Bingham, 319 Grand Ave., Dayton, Ohio writes: "Since starting with Rennie I have lost 30 lbs. I also have lost 6 inches from around my waist and hips."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain liquid Rennie at your druggist, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If you do not lose weight with the very first bottle just return it for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennie.

Go See It.. For an Inspiration!

You ought to go see the new Cadillac. You ought to walk all around it and look at it from every angle—and you ought to open the door and get in and sit down.

You ought to slide over behind the wheel and look out over that jewel-like dash into the exciting beyond.

And you ought to do this, whatever the car you own today—and whatever the car you expect to own.

For it will lift up your spirits and add to your faith in America's industrial enterprise and productive ingenuity.

You look at those beautiful, flowing lines—and you can't escape the conviction that America's industrial artistry in metals is unsurpassed in all the world.

You look at the fabrics that tailor the seats and cushions—and you realize that America's manufacturing genius is unapproached for bringing luxury into everyday life.

Baby Sitter, 68, Files Lawsuit For $100,000

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23—A 68-year-old baby sitter is suing a Greater Cleveland family today for $100,000 for injuries received while baby sitting in their suburban Shaker Heights home.

The woman, Mrs. Theresa Weingartner, filed suit yesterday against Attorney George J. McGonagle's wife, Hazel, and their daughter, Sally, 10, alleging that the child's acts led to her injuries.

Mrs. Weingartner said Sally and her nine-year-old brother, Richard, were watching television when she went upstairs to look in on their brother, James, 6, who was asleep. She added that Sally turned off the hall light as she was returning to the top of the stairs.

Mrs. Weingartner said she tripped on loose carpeting, fell down the stairs, broke her hip, received other injuries and was hospitalized four months.

Wardens Readied

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Franklin County started organizing an air raid warden service today after the state Civil Defense organization approved its plan for six zones, to be split up into sectors, districts, posts and "beats."

Man, 45, Cited Under Mann Act

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23—A 45-year-old ex-convict with a background of larceny, mail theft and housebreaking, is being held by the FBI here today on charges of violating the Mann Act.

Marvin Orr, also known as Don Orr, was picked up by Cleveland police and turned over to the FBI on a federal complaint.

Orr was charged by the FBI with taking a 33-year-old woman from Cleveland to Chicago on May 18, 1948. Orr said the woman was his wife, according to William C. Graves, an assistant United States attorney who represented the FBI at the hearing before U. S. Commissioner H. A. Horn.

City Auditor Asks Relection

A petition seeking reelection as Circleville city auditor has been taken out by Lillian Young.

Pickaway County board of elections officials reported the petition taken out by Miss Young is the second issued to possible candidates in the May primary elections. First petition was taken out by Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

Petitions must be filed by Feb. 8, the board said.

Convicted Slayer Labeled Insane

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23—Ernest B. Deem, 43-year-old convicted slayer of his cousin, Mrs. John George, and her husband in Carroll County in 1949, has been adjudged insane.

The ruling came yesterday by Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Clifford who received a letter Jan. 17 from Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ralph W. Alvis stating that Deem "appears to be insane." Alvis wrote:

"This inmate has been examined by four eminent psychiatrists and all have concluded he is psychotic, suffering from a paranoid-type of schizophrenia (split personality)."

Vice Raid Nets 27 In Newark

NEWARK, Jan. 23—Twenty-seven Newark residents faced gambling charges today in the wake of two raids on the W and N Newsstand and the Pastime Cafe, less than half a block from City Square.

Police Chief J. D. Harris led a specially picked vice squad in the raids late yesterday afternoon. He said the squad, composed of men new to the force, found horse race and numbers bets being taken at the newsstand and a card game in progress in the cafe.

ECA In Pacific Being Urged By Bipartisan Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—A bipartisan House group proposed today that the U. S. confront Communism in Asia with a Pacific military pact patterned after the North Atlantic Defense Alliance.

Two sponsors also introduced legislation to set up an Economic Cooperation Administration for the Far East which would be modeled along the lines of the operation in Europe.

Authors of the Pacific pact resolution are: Reps. Battle,

Alabama; Mansfield, Montana; Morgan, Pennsylvania; Ribicoff, Connecticut, and Zablocki, Wisconsin, Democrats, and Javits, New York; Merrow, New Hampshire, and Judd, Minnesota, Republicans.

The Far Eastern ECA plan was offered by Javits and Ribicoff, who said that economic self-help and mutual cooperation would provide an "affirmative" offensive against Communism in the Orient.
